In 2006-07 I managed several projects at the Sydney Water Hermitage Road, West Ryde complex, mainly in the Hawkesbury Laboratory building. Included in these projects were the separate refurbishments of the Sample Receipt and Trace Organics Preparation Laboratories.

The multi-service Scope of Work included demolition and disposal, painting, flooring, special finish benchwork (Chemical resistant laminates and #316 Stainless Steel), plumbing, (compressed air, vacuum, mains and de-ionised water) electrical and data cabling.

Both of these projects were fast tracked and there was a significant out of hours component in order to minimise disruption to the Laboratory building operations.

John Stevenson was the successful tenderer for both of these Laboratory refurbishments. Works were performed to a generally high standard and in a timely and safe manner and John was pro-active in resolving potential areas of concern. One of the key factors in successful project completions was the always open communication channel, including after Practical Completion if end user staff voiced concerns.

I would have no hesitation in using John in future for such work and in recommending his services to others, as he has always acted in an ethical and transparent manner.
